

The David Borwein Archive

What it contains

- Archive of all DB papers in PDF
- A brief CV
- A timeline with papers, many photos and a few movies
- Documentation on 80th Birthday meeting run at the CMS in Halifax

DAVID BORWEIN at NINETY

a tribute, archive & biography

HOME CONFERENCE TIMELINE & GALLERY ARCHIVE

Welcome to David Borwein at Ninety. This site is a tribute to the life-time work of this versatile mathematician.

The site contains information on his 90th birthday (March 24, 2014) and its celebration (April 16, 2014), a brief biography [PDF] (and a 2004 reminiscence [PDF] by a son), and a timeline featuring photos of David and his collaborators, along with a complete archive of David's papers.

David Borwein's work in mathematics has spanned well over six decades. He currently holds both an Emeritus and an Adjunct professorship at Western University in London Ontario, and is still actively engaged in research, particularly in the fields of classical analysis and summability theory.

A modern tribute

carma.newcastle.edu.au/db90/

- Modelled on Mahler Archive (2012)
carma.newcastle.edu.au/mahler/
- IP issues
 - there is little market left for collected works in print
 - "open access" is becoming a reality
- Persistence issues

Let us open the archive